

Training for the NaimNet system is in a safe pair of hands

A CATCH FOR THE NET

Jonathan Smith has joined NaimNet as its trainer, highlighting the significance of education to this relatively fresh face in the CI sector. Jonathan will also be responsible for ensuring the NaimNet sales and installation chain is knowledgeable, up-to-date and professional.

For NaimNet training is just beginning, with accreditation an essential requirement for those wishing to install or specify a system.

Jonathan's career to date has always included work with IT infrastructure, both commercial and residential. He also has experience of system building and worked as a server administrator for a large online server company. In 2003 Jonathan moved into the CI sector and has successfully run his own company ever since, installing many types of multi-room audio and home cinema systems. He became a certified Installer of NetStreams™ DigiLinX products in 2005.

"It's very exciting to be given the opportunity to start with a clean sheet of paper training wise," Jonathan remarked. "I know I can structure the training just as I would like to be trained; and then from the feedback I can just keep improving it. It's a hell of a challenge and really exciting. Roll on the first training day."

IT'S BATH TIME!

Following on from the success of its 17-inch digital waterproof TV, Envirovision has launched the world's first HD Ready 19-inch waterproof bathroom television. This comes complete with a FreeView tuner and is available in two versions.

The 19EA option comes supplied with separate, high-quality, waterproof ceiling mounted speakers while the 19IA version is the same specification, with integral waterproof speakers providing the audio.

Each is available in a number of chic finishes, including mirror polished stainless steel, brush polished stainless steel, black, gold or mirror screened. Additional optional accessories include a sky remote control link and a multi systems remote control link to control any other device.

The integrated twin digital DVB FreeView and multi-region analogue tuner, pin sharp high definition images, HDMI connectivity, EPG and array of image enhancement technologies make Envirovision's latest TVs high desirable. If you're looking to bring entertainment to a watery venue, you won't find any more functional solutions.

OPEN ALL HOURS

Remote Technologies Incorporated (RTI), the home system control solutions specialist, is now offering extended tech support hours as part of its Committed to Custom initiative. The new hours of operation will be from 8am to 6pm CST - previously they were 9am-5pm CST. C2C - or Committed to Custom - highlights RTI's devotion to the custom installation market.

"We are extending our current tech support hours to better serve our dealers nationwide," explained Pete Baker, Vice President of Sales and Marketing for RTI. "As part of our C2C pledge, expanding our service hours supports our commitment to customer service and being there for our dealers when they need us."

RTI has always strived to be a good partner to its dealers and focuses on designing solutions for the custom installation market, sold exclusively through trained professionals. Its TheaterTouch Designer Programming Software, which is used to program all of the products in the line, is only available to trained dealers. Backed by a broad product line and the C2C initiative, expect to hear a lot more from RTI before the year's out.
